RENDERING PORTFOLIO

A decorative floral element, possibly a lotus flower, is positioned in the top right corner of the image. It has multiple layers of petals, with the outermost layer being a vibrant orange and the inner layers transitioning to a darker, almost black color. The background is a solid, deep blue.

Faculty Note

Empowering the young minds to follow their instincts to choose the way they wanted to learn was the motive behind the computer application studio. Learning process was conceived as a real time architecture studio scenario, enabling students to envision their future in architecture.

Hence, speed and precision in the work produced became the goal. Discipline and curiousness shown by the students had always encouraged us. We appreciate, all the students who could make this CA book -edition 1, a successfull one.
